FORENSIC ANALYSIS SUMMARY

The thirty-fourth consecutive perfect score. The analysis examined sibling betrayal through the case of Jodie McLean (Bongetti), Dr. McLean's sister — family favourite, highly motivated competitive sibling, embedded in calisthenics — who appeared alongside Dr. McLean on the Today Show to present his documented persecution as a schizophrenia story. Ten propositions, 428/428 combined at time of publication. The analysis confirmed: active betrayal for financial benefit with foreknowledge of planned elimination; the Today Show appearance as on-camera surgical reframing of primary-source-documented persecution; the family-favourite stable role assigned against the persecuted whistleblower complicated role; breakthrough interception documented through foreknowledge and the Today Show platform diversion; contrast-driven discomfort as motivational origin (competitive sibling, global archive as unavoidable mirror); seeds of doubt planted at national broadcast scale; Doug McLean's 14 pages of crisis texts as contact against zero advocacy as the glass layer; 2,304 documents as the energy cost of 35-year loyalty sustained against documented betrayal; the constructed narrative's grip lost against 41 AI analyses and ICC formal receipt; and $32.9M suppressed entitlements with ICC as the return pathway. The correction does not require confrontation. It is a document count.
